

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

Manuscripts are solicited for the Asian Review of Public Administration (ARPA). ARPA will consider manuscripts that draw attention to and/or discuss important developments in public administration/public management with wide international relevance. However it is essentially a regional journal, so that some preference will be given to manuscripts focusing on developments of relevance to the Asia-Pacific (EROPA) region. Articles submitted for publication should be between 6000 and 8000 words inclusive of notes and references.

ARPA is a blind peer-reviewed journal, so articles submitted should contain title and author name(s) on a sheet separate from the text. A brief biographical sketch of the contributor, and a short abstract of approximately 100 words, should accompany each article.

They should be submitted double-spaced, preferably on-line, to eropa.secretariat@gmail.com. As to format and style, contributors should take note of and follow the heading, paragraphing, general writing and referencing formats and styles explained below.

The Editorial Board reserves the right to make necessary editorial modifications including changes in the titles of articles. All accepted articles will be returned to authors for proof-checking, and published authors will receive two copies of the issue of the journal containing their article.

Contributors are advised to adopt the following format and styles:

For A headings we use bold type, upper and lower case, flush with the left margin. For B headings we use italics, upper and lower case, flush with the left margin. It is best to avoid further subdivisions. Eg, Framework for Analysis: Sources of Continuity (A heading), Processes, Principles and Interests (B heading).

Note that the first line of text below headings is not indented. Subsequent paragraphs are indented.

Quotations: (a) use double quotation marks for a simple quotation; (b) for a quotation within a quotation, use single quotation marks; (c) quotations which are five lines or longer when typeset (60 words is a reasonable guideline) should be indented from the left and right margins; (d) no quotation marks should be used either at the beginning or at the end of an indented quotation; (e) spelling, punctuation, capitalization and the use of italics in quotations should follow the original - however, translations should be changed to conform to our style.

Abbreviations: (a) avoid unnecessary abbreviations - a text full of acronyms and abbreviations is difficult to read; (b) it is usually unnecessary to abbreviate a short term; (c) ensure that all acronyms are spelt out when they first appear - eg, Mandatory Provident Fund (MPF); (d) omit the full stop after Dr, Mr, Ms, Mrs, St, ed, eds and in abbreviations consisting entirely of capitals, eg, OECD. For references (see also below), we omit stops after initials in author names.

Spelling: we use “z” rather than “s” in, eg, organization, corporatization, privatization, etc. Where the Concise Oxford Dictionary gives alternative spellings, the preferred spelling should be used.

Italics: italic script makes the italicized word conspicuous. It should therefore be used with restraint. Italic type is best reserved for (a) titles of books, journals and newspapers; (b) foreign words and phrases. In exceptional cases, words may be italicized for emphasis, but it is best to use this practice sparingly.

Capitalization: capitals should be used sparingly. If in doubt, use lower case.

Hyphens: We prefer to use hyphens for compound adjectives, ie where the adjective comprises two (or more) closely linked words, as in “a longer-term relationship”. Not, however, in “a longer term”, where only the “longer” is an adjective.

Numbers: (a) in a descriptive text, numbers under 10 should be spelt out; (b) numbers from 10 upwards should normally be written in figures; (c) avoid using a figure at the beginning of a sentence – there the number should be written in words; (d) figures should be used for all percentages (percent, not per cent), ratios, dates, degrees, dimensions, times of day, series of figures, weights and measures, and such obvious cases as page references.

Dates: (a) we use the form “30 June 2003”; (b) when month and year alone are mentioned, we use “July 2003”; (c) names of months may be abbreviated in tables as follows: Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr, May, June, July, Aug, Sept, Oct, Nov, Dec - it is not necessary to abbreviate them in the text; (d) use 1990s, not 1990’s; (e) abbreviate references to centuries and decades - eg, 19th century, 20th-century China, during the 1980s and 1990s; (f) use 1997-99, not 1997-1999; (g) a financial year may be referred to as 2000/01.

Notes: should be kept to a minimum, and are for important qualifications to what is said in the text, not for reference material (on which see next item).

References: we use the text style of, eg, (Anderson 2003), (OECD 2003:77), with a range of pages being 7-10, 11-17, 91-94, 100-106, etc. Page numbers or page-number runs should always be given when there are direct quotes, close paraphrases, or views or items of information relating particularly to the cited source. In text citations where there are more than two authors, use this form: (Martin et al 1999: 46); all will be named in the reference list. Use the ampersand (“&”) in citations and reference list items except where “and” is part of a formal title.

In the list of references at the end of the article, the titles of books, journals, newspapers, reports, and theses/dissertations should be in italics. The references should be set out as follows:
